

Pile driver installation of photovoltaic panels scam

Overview

Someone contacts you through email, phone, social media, or even in person pretending to be a solar company salesperson. The "representative" has a special offer: they can install solar panels on your home for a very low cost – or even free. Find a solar panel installer today! We've all been sent scammy emails and they'll slip through because it looks much more official than it is. However, scammers across the U.S. are going door-to-door, pitching "free" solar energy systems. The criminals are leaving unsuspecting homeowners with massive debt; many victims have reported losing tens of thousands. While reputable companies can help you save money with clean or solar energy improvements, scammers offer more than they can deliver. Always look for businesses you can trust – like Accredited Businesses using the BBB Seal. Scammers may misrepresent services, make false
